

The Media Festival

www.themediainfestival.com

The Media Festival is the only place where professionals from across the digital media landscape – from gaming to film to mobile to advertising, TV and beyond – congregate to discuss, challenge and create new ideas, new business models and new partnerships. Expect to hear many a mockney among the high-flying media types that insist we all really just want to watch programmes about other people's boring jobs or their stupid pets. If you live or work in Shoreditch you're more than likely to be in attendance.

Still it's a pretty cool content-managed site and the festival is no doubt pretty interesting, but maybe a few to many Barleys about for our taste.

"I love Frontmedia's "can do attitude". They offer a great service, fast turnaround and design is always of a high quality. Their CMS system is great and easy to use.

This is why 8 out of 10 cats prefer Frontmedia ;-)"

Joanne Pocock
Marketing Manager
Emap