

London Heathrow Gateway www.londonheathrowgateway.com

Do you organise huge conference events for delegates across Europe? No, well if you did you'd no doubt be familiar with this site we produced for Visit London (the body responsible for promoting the capital around the world). After having just a couple of days to prepare our pitch, we were duly asked to create a new identity and website with lots of lovely flash animations to show those sceptical Europeans that the Heathrow corridor is the ideal place to base your conference or event (particularly if you don't count Terminal 5 ;). The response so far has been anywhere from "very positive" to "really pleased" so you can't really say much fairer than that (and we've just completed some extensions to the CMS to make it even easier for the client to update).

