Martin, the frankly huge and market-leading lighting company from Denmark are always looking to promote their latest products online. Having worked on a range of phenomenally successful (not our words, alright they are but it's only what the client keeps telling us) print brochures and catalogues, Frontmedia were commissioned to produce a series of flash animations designed to showcase the cutting-edge product Martin specialise in.

The animations currently feature (at the time of writing) on the martin.com homepage and have received a similar response to the brochures which, to paraphrase The Fast Show, is nice.
