Fancy staying in a fancy, spacious apartment instead of a poky hotel room next time you're in London? It'd be more expensive wouldn't it? Well no as it turns out (granted you were kind of expecting that otherwise there'd be no point in posing the question, but anyway), you can stay in great apartments all over the capital and other cities across the UK for the same price as a hotel room. Who knew.

Prestige Apartments offer a comprehensive service to find exactly the right kind of apartment at the right price, but their old website and branding simply didn't reflect the quality of their offering.

Frontmedia were asked to create a new brand and content-managed website to not only set Prestige apart from the competition, but also handle all their administrative requirements, from booking notes through to invoicing. Consider this website the tip of a rather nice iceberg then.
