

Royal Mail 800th Anniversary University of Cambridge pack

Being the clever type here at Frontmedia, we were naturally all educated at Cambridge* (as you'd expect). We even know how to pronounce "Gonville and Caius College" correctly, so when the Royal Mail asked us to design a commemorative stamp sheet to celebrate 800 years of the university's existence, we had a bit of a headstart.

The result was this rather nice ltd. edition stamp sheet and product card (to hold the stamp sheet), proffering a (very) brief history of the venerable institution from 1209 to the present day to the lucky owner.

* This may not actually be true.

"For a number of years Frontmedia have provided Royal Mail with high quality design on many stamp related products. They have consistently provided a very professional service for many of our print needs."
