

Voice are a rapidly expanding PR company coming straight outta Braxted and since public relations is their thing, you probably already know all about their new website, but for the sake of the next paragraph, let's imagine for a second that you don't.

We've built them a shiny new, content-managed website to further enable their quest for global PR-based domination. You'll find out what they've been doing, who they've been doing it for and if you are so inclined, how to get them to do it for you too. Why not take a look?

