

Following the success of our packaging redesign for this up-and-coming business, Frontmedia were asked to give their website the same treatment.

The new identity and packaging is now backed by a nifty e-commerce website to cater for all your meat-based food requirements. The super clean layout makes it easy for any user to navigate and make a purchase.

The client can update the site with new products, news stories and more, quickly and easily via our bespoke content management system. As with all our sites, SEO optimisation is fitted as standard.
