

Wilson Miller Resourcing has been placing marketing professionals in leading ICT companies since 2001. Having seen our work for their sister company Wilsonmiller, WMR asked Frontmedia if we could build their new website to their design and specification. We said “no problem”, they said “OK, can you do it then” and we got to work.

The database-driven website has an extensive backend CMS that enables full organisation and export of candidate, client and vacancy information via a secure online interface. The CMS powers the vacancy posting on the website and collates online candidate registrations and client job postings ready to be processed by the WMR consultants.
